BEEP!
Beyond the Frogpond and Back
BY STEWART PARKS

Bob Pilhaus is a self-absorbed, radical 24-year-old surfer/hippie/intellectual refugee from the '60s; a lost soul, desperately searching for meaning and peace of mind in 1972. Join him on a surprising trip through a cosmic time-trap of his own making, which leads him down a twisting but strangely familiar road, towards the ultimate answers he seeks to the really big questions about the nature of the universe.

MAGNIFICATS
Return of the Demon Wind
BY GWYN DOLYN

When a gwyllion wind engulfs a 13-year-old outside her Irish middle school, the veil between everyday reality and an unseen world is momentarily torn away. She catches a glimpse into an ether-world, locking eyes with the leader of a clandestine order of numinous nine-lived cats, known by tree folk & fey alike as Magnificats. Thus begins an amazing adventure, which ultimately brings her a new understanding of courage, purpose, loyalty, & family.

MALHEUR
A Balkan War Mystery

BY PAMELIA BARRATT

A story of international intrigue following the historical events of the breakup of Yugoslavia in the 1990s. Through a mix of romance, assassin's bullets, and Balkan / cowboy culture clashes, young untrained and unauthorized survivors of the Balkan wars of secession work independently to collect incriminating evidence to help bring war criminals to justice.

BLOOD: the Color of Cranberries
BY PAMELIA BARRATT

A sweeping chronicle of the Milton family, sophisticated Chicagoans, forced to move to a small, northern Wisconsin peat bog in 1920, due to an unexpected death in the family. Twisting interplays of personalities, each with their own secrets, delay the unraveling of this "accident" for forty years. Through the narrative, a history of Indianhead country, early Wisconsin North Woods communities, and cranberry cultivation in America prior to 1960 are introduced.

GRAY DOMINION
BY PAMELIA BARRATT

A widowed artist and a mildly autistic intellectual put down their paint brush, binoculars, and guidebook projects to investigate mysterious happenings in Yellowstone Park. Along the way, they encounter battles between preservation and public access, and individual liberty vs. balancing the ecosystem. They negotiate overlapping state, federal, and local agencies to help solve a murder conspiracy that eventually leads all the way to the governor's mansion.

AN OSTENTATION
BY PAMELIA BARRATT

Pamelia Barratt's second historical mystery novel revolves around one of the oldest families of Chicago, locally renowned for its elegant jewelry store, CD Peacocks. Coping with the downturn of their business following WWII, feathers are ruffled when Bernard Peacock is determined to marry Safi, a Jewish girl from Maxwell Street. Like all families, it is only truly understood as its past secrets and ordeals are revealed.
